The Clark School leads research advancements in space exploration, autonomy, semiconductors, new materials, and more:

- Ethical and impactful use of artificial intelligence (AI)
- Development of improved and sustainable energy sources and storage systems
- Expansion of quantum computing and networking systems
- Creation of smart manufacturing systems that strengthen our nation's economy
- Integration of AI and advanced technologies into health care solutions that are accessible, affordable, and personalized to the patient

These examples represent a few of the many impacts our outstanding students, faculty, staff, and alums create every day.

The University of Maryland is the largest university in the nation's capital region. Our community benefits from its proximity and connections to federal labs and agencies and industry partners, giving our students, faculty, staff, and alums the chance to put their knowledge to work. With locations throughout the state, including our new community maker-space in Baltimore, we empower Maryland residents to envision and build their future. We are proud that our student community includes engineers from every county in our state.

Whatever the opportunity or obstacle, when society faces seemingly insurmountable challenges, the world comes to Maryland Engineering. We innovate for the public good.
